

Thesis booklets:

Tips:

- Try to use clear colors (shading and transparency often does not work well for printing).
- If possible use B/W as this saves money. I think about 1/6th of the price per page.
- Price for a 150-160 page thesis, with many colored pages: 25-30 EUR per copy. This can be significantly reduced with B/W, maybe down to 15-20 EUR per copy.
- Make sure page numbering is either in the center, or even pages left/odd pages right.
- Preferably page number 1 should be the first page of introduction. Though this can vary, sometimes people make the title page (the very first page of thesis) page 1.

How to print:

- Copy De Raaf: <https://www.deraaf.be/>
 - (1) Mail them (info@deraaf.be) your thesis (.pdf) and front/back cover (.docx).
 - (2) They might give you some feedback (some things to correct), and after your corrections they will proceed and print 1 copy for you to check.
 - (3) If the copy looks good, they can proceed and print X copies.

What to do with the printed copies:

1. Send copies to your entire jury + supervisors at least 2 weeks before defense. (This is not strict, but make sure to email and check with them how they want it).
2. Send two (2) copies to Royal Library of Belgium (make sure to state to bpost that it is to KBR — KBR will pay for the delivery):

KBR (Royal Library of Belgium)
Legal deposit Place of Justice 9
B-1000 Brussels

3. Give one (1) copy to the biomedical library (ON1, 4th floor).

Finalizing thesis (to get “status 7”):

KU Locket -> Research -> PhD Progress

-> Title & Summaries:

Make sure you have English and Dutch abstract (both "scientific" and "popular")
Make sure your title is correct.

-> FRIS & Research portal:

Make sure you add the right keywords/codes. Not mandatory I think, but maybe good to do?

-> Progress on the PhD:

Make sure to upload the thesis to Lirias. Click on "Lirias" button at "Digital Archiving Lirias".

Check 'Info/template' for instructions. It is easy task, you basically just find your PhD thesis and then click "Deposit".

Public defense:

- Book room for defense: lokalen@kuleuven.be. You could do it online too, possibly, but it is easier to just tell them to book it for you. Make sure you give them date, time and location.
- Book togas/gowns for the defense: <https://www.kuleuven.be/communicatie/toga/?lang=en>.
 - You need to know the height of your jury (add it in "Remarks"). Size of toga is based on height. You should email your jury/supervisors about this. Some might have their own togas. Often if they have, they can be found in the university hall. This means that under "Gown" you select "Has a personal gown in the University Hall". If they don't have one you select "Does not have a personal gown" and specify size under "Remarks". Togas will be delivered to the specified location.
- Book reception:
 - Book tables and signs for reception: Contact CLD@kuleuven.be. If you want them to book for you, you have to explicitly tell them to book for you (otherwise they will just give you a link). It seems that this is free (at least tables)
 - Book drinks/snacks for the reception:
 - (alma) catering@alma.kuleuven.be. Maybe start and ask for the menu.
 - (traiteurdufour) info@traiteurdufour.be (website: <https://traiteurdufour.be/>)
